General, Non-engineering, female

Professor Vartika Dutta,Nabendu Paul

V: Welcome Radhey, Please give an introduction about yourself.

R: gave a prepared answer

V: So you are a management student, what were your papers in college?

R: Finance, marketing, HR, OB, ETC

V: And what was your favourite amidst these?

R: Financial Management

V: Sir is from a finance background, so he is going to take that up later.

Tell me, did you study operations?

R: Yes mam I had a paper

V: What is supply chain management?

R: It is a study of flow of goods and services from procurement of raw materials to delivery of finished products.

V: What is logistics?

R: Transportation of goods from one place to another?

V: Then what is the difference between the two?

R: Logistics is just the transportation of goods but supply chain involves transportation, management of those goods, planning in advance how much of raw materials we ll need, etc.

V: Are you sure its not the other way around? Think which is a set and which one is the subset?

R: Supply chain is the set and Logistics is the subset.

V: ok.

You have mentioned your interests in the environment and sustainable development. Do you know about the circular economy?

CATKing
CONNECT | ASPIRE | TRANSFORM

R: No mam, I don't know about that.

V: It is an economics system where we try to create minimal waste and focus on recycling as much as we can. Do you know about sovereign green bonds?

R: Mam I have some ideas, I want to try. It refers to bonds that are issued for companies whose products are sustainable for the environment.

V: Do you know how many SDGs there are?

R: yes mam, there are 17.

V: they were given by which organisation?

R: UN

V: Do you think India is doing something with that regard?

R:Yes mam, India is definitely trying to make more sustainable cities, in fact the budget this year focused a lot on a lot of infrastructure development(wanted to be questioned on budget but she didn't ask me on it)

V: so you have a podcast, blog and YouTube channel, what is the difference that you have to keep in mind while creating content for these?

R: blog requires written content, podcast requires audio content and yt requires audio visual content both. So while preparing for these I have to make sure that I use the right terms or indicators to get more audience. So for example, for my blogs, I use the best terms or phrases I can to best utilize search engine optimization. Or using the right caption for my YouTube video. Etc

N: Okay Radhey since your favourite subject was FM. Tell me what the subject is about.

R: It is about applying financial knowledge to our business, to maximise our profits and minimise our costs.

N: Can you give me an example where we could use an aspect of FM to minimise costs and maximise profits.

R: Yes sir. For example we use our understanding of financial leverage to understand our costs. If we have high fixed costs and less variable costs, we can increase out units of production to increase profits without much affecting our costs.

N: What are the 3 types of accounting?

R : Sir they are real , nominal and personal.

N: I am talking about accounting not accounts. Try again.

CATKing
CONNECT | ASPIRE | TRANSFORM

When confronted he said the director told him that he can do it.what will you do in this case if you were the Hr
